Majda Al Riyami is currently a Managing Partner of Said Al Busaidy & Co, and one of Oman's leading litigation lawyers. With more than 22 years of legal experience, she has established a distinguished reputation for handling complex and high-value disputes across a broad range of practice areas, including civil, commercial, administrative, employment, maritime, aviation, and Sharia law. Majda represents a diverse portfolio of leading national and international clients across various sectors, including insurance, aviation, shipping, petrochemicals, engineering, and construction. She regularly advises clients on the prosecution, defence, and settlement of claims, providing strategic and commercially focused legal solutions. She is among the very few female advocates in the Sultanate of Oman with rights of audience before the Supreme Court. Her extensive knowledge of Omani law and court procedures has led to her appointment as lead counsel in numerous high-stakes disputes before the Omani courts and arbitral tribunals.

Recognised for her sharp legal judgment and effective advocacy, Majda has successfully represented clients in significant civil and commercial litigation, as well as complex employment disputes, earning a reputation as a trusted advisor and formidable litigator. As a member of the Firm's Aviation and Shipping Practice Group, Majda has developed particular expertise in defending international airlines operating in Oman against passenger and product liability claims and in negotiating the settlement of disputes. She also possesses substantial experience in maritime law matters, including ship arrests, attachment orders, and disputes involving vessels operating within Omani waters. Beyond her legal practice, Majda is actively involved in community and social responsibility initiatives aimed at promoting public awareness of Omani law and enhancing understanding of the legal profession's role in society.

Prior to July 2026, Majda was a Partner of AMJ.
